RTMS.e7 Microarray Technique, Analysis, and Applications in Dermatology

QUESTIONS

1. The term “array” in microarray refers to the arrangement of which of the following on the chip?
   A. The probe.
   B. The target.
   C. The fluorophore.
   D. The antigen.

2. The most common types of probes used for microarrays are:
   A. Complementary DNA.
   B. Single-nucleotide polymorphisms.
   C. Antibodies.
   D. Double-stranded DNA.

3. Microarray analysis has been used to study:
   A. Melanoma.
   B. Psoriasis.
   C. Cutaneous T-cell lymphoma.
   D. Scleroderma.
   E. All of the above.

ANSWERS

1. A.
2. A.
3. E.